

Helen Maguire MP

Reporting back to you...

“ It has been a busy first 100 days in Parliament. Below are just a few things I have been up to on your behalf. I will continue to push for better healthcare provision; cleaner rivers; and an economy that works for you. I will push for the change the residents of Epsom, Ewell, Ashted and Leatherhead want to see, and I will also hold the new Government to account. ”

A Big THANK YOU to the voters of Ewell

Now work starts on securing our new hospital

Thank you to all those who voted for Helen Maguire and the Liberal Democrats at the general election.

The Chancellor recently hinted at cuts to infrastructure projects which might include the new emergency care hospital at Sutton - a facility that will alleviate pressures on Epsom and St Helier hospitals.

Sutton is designed to be a centre of excellence, equipped with state-of-the-art facilities for the most serious emergency cases. Without it, our healthcare services will struggle with sub-standard conditions at Epsom and St Helier.

“Our new hospital was promised to us - now it must be built!”

“The time for waiting is over,” says Helen. “It’s time for action, and I will not rest until our community gets the healthcare investment it has been promised and so desperately needs.”

About Julian Freeman

Julian lives in the heart of Ewell Village and is a serving councillor with Epsom & Ewell Council having previously served for 12 years in neighbouring borough Sutton.

He is a former parent governor at Epsom & Ewell High School and Chair of Nonsuch Park Joint management Committee.

Julian's experience of volunteer work with the homeless in Central London led him to pursue a long and varied career in social housing, and this will be one of his priorities if elected. If elected, Julian will stand up for vulnerable members of the community, fight for our public services, and champion our green spaces.

Julian says: "Sadly we've been ignored and let down by the Conservative controlled County Council for too long. I'm working with local people to get Ewell a fairer deal."

Lib Dems fight Winter Fuel payment cuts

Liberal Democrats are opposing the Government's cut to Winter Fuel Allowance.

Thousands aged over 80 in Epsom and Ewell are at risk of losing £300 due to the government's cuts.

Cllr Julian Freeman believes that Surrey County Council should be taking a leading role in promoting the support available: "Many pensioners I speak to in Epsom and Ewell are really worried about how they will make ends meet. I am working with Helen and the local Lib Dem team to stand up for our pensioners."

Overhanging hedges

The Conservatives underspent the budget to keep pavements clear

Are you struggling to walk safely on paths because of the overhanging bushes?

If so, you can contact Surrey County Council to report the issue. The easiest way is to visit the SCC website and search under the roads and transport section.

House owners have a duty to keep their hedges cut back so you can walk safely. If a friendly word cannot persuade your neighbour, then SCC can follow this up on your behalf by writing to them.

When the hedge is on County land, SCC have a duty to carry out the work. The Lib Dems were disappointed to discover, via an FOI request, that locally there is underspend on this budget. The Lib Dems can help you to push the Conservatives to take action!

Bikes on Pavements

Motorbikes on pavements have now for a while troubled the residents of Epsom and those of us who walk in the Town centre, particularly by Epsom Square and outside McDonald's.

They park fully on the pavement, obstructing a significant part of the pavement, and occasionally forcing pedestrians out into the road.

Cllr Julian Freeman said, "We recognise the valuable economic benefit that delivery services bring to the area, and how they serve both customers and local businesses, but this must not come at the expense of the right of way of pedestrians. Designated places must be found, such as in dedicated parking bays, and new bays may need to be created. Enforcement action must be taken by Surrey County Council when appropriate."

Pavements should be accessible for all especially those with mobility issues.

Our local Lib Dem MP, Helen Maguire will be meeting with the leader of SCC, Tim Oliver, to push for a solution that finds a legal space for the bikes that is not intimidating and does not obstruct pedestrians on the pavement.

Lib Dems push for new SEND school

Lib Dem MPs pressure Conservative County Council for placement deferral

Pressure is building to fill the huge gap in Special Educational Needs & Disability (SEND) schooling in the Epsom area with an intervention from newly elected Liberal Democrat MPs.

Epsom & Ewell council has approved the planning application for the change of use for the Karibou Centre on the Wells. The plan is for a new SEND school for 50 pupils. The children would be between 11 and 17 and would receive specialist support for individuals with autistic spectrum disorders.

Lib Dem campaigner Julian Freeman is pleased to see that work appears to have started on-site as Surrey has a shortage of such provision.

In a further development, the six newly elected Surrey Lib Dem MPs are pushing the Conservative County Council to reverse a new decision to give parents a month, rather than six months, to make their placement preferences suggesting that it is an "unacceptably short time frame".

Work has started on the construction of a new SEND school at the Karibou Centre on the Wells.
